

Ask Brutus

Engagement Metrics and Conversation Trends

Students increasingly expect fast, accessible answers when navigating enrollment and academic processes. Questions about admissions, financial aid, registration, and deadlines often arise outside traditional office hours.

Brutus provides messaging-based support that allows students to ask questions and receive guidance when they need it, extending the reach of enrollment services and improving access to information.

Why Brutus Matters:

By providing immediate responses to common questions and directing more complex issues to the appropriate offices, Brutus helps students find information quickly while reducing the volume of routine inquiries handled by staff.

What These Conversations Reveal

Student conversations with Brutus highlight where students most often need support while navigating enrollment and academic processes.

Registrar-related questions make up the largest share of conversations, followed by Admissions, Student Services, and Advising, while Campus Services, the Bursar, and Financial Aid represent smaller portions of student inquiries.

By answering common questions instantly and directing students to the appropriate offices or resources, Brutus helps students find information quickly while reducing the volume of routine inquiries handled by staff.

Understanding the Categories

The categories shown in this chart reflect the primary types of questions students ask when interacting with Brutus and align with the departments responsible for those services. Registrar includes registration, transcripts, grades, and degree requirements. Admissions covers applying, application status, placement testing, and getting started as a new student. Financial Aid includes FAFSA completion, aid eligibility, scholarships, loans, and verification. Bursar covers tuition charges, payments, and account balances. Student Services includes tutoring, counseling, disability support, and student systems. Campus Services includes parking, campus locations, transportation, and facilities. Some responses also reflect replies to Institutional Marketing campaigns, which are not captured in the chart but reach students across Enrollment Management.
